PRESIDENT'S COMMENTS

(Peter Cartledge)

As our year draws to a close and we face our AGM and election of office bearers may I take opportunity to thank my committee for their efforts again this year.

It makes my job so much easier to have people of their calibre around and anyone of them need only to be asked once (if at all) for the job to be done. Thank you, one and all.

The Luncheon to honour our Widows and Life members' attendance was a little down on last year however the number of Widow members was up on last year. Thank you ladies; please make this an annual effort.

Our ANZAC Eve reunion and the Dawn Service at Oakleigh again were well attended and the alterations to the Memorial Garden were inspected and I feel well accepted. Well done to the members of 22 Construction Regiment for their efforts and we look forward to the planting out behind the garden to cut out the headlamps from the Huntingdale Rd interchange during the dawn service.

Our old friend Charlie Potter arrived later on ANZAC Day and had an accident, last seen en route to hospital and try as I may I have not been able to contact him, or anybody who knows Charlie to find out how he fared. I rang the hospital but to no avail (privacy) and no contact number for Charlie so members you can see how contact numbers are very important to us and as for this b.....y privacy - well! Please anyone who knows Charlie let us know his details – thank you.

I have attended the Reserve Forces Day Committee meetings and the March on Sunday 6th July 2003 and with help carried our banner; however not many of our members followed suit!

I look forward to seeing you all at the AGM, the notice for which appears later in this "Lightning Flash".

Congratulations to Michael and Janice Newbond upon their wedding on Easter Saturday.

SOCIAL REPORT

(Peter Cartledge)

Our Luncheon to honour our Widows and Life Members went very well with 55 attending (Widows 5, Life Members 7, Members 15, Associates 16 & 6 Apologies), also ANZAC Eve reunion with 53 attending with 9 Apologies.

Both the above functions were enjoyed by all who attended and numbers for ANZAC Eve were possibly affected by the long weekend, however those members who did not attend please try to make the effort next year.

Our next function is our AGM followed by a BBQ luncheon with the Sergeants Mess bar open for our use.

We have spent quite a lot of time to organise our Melbourne Cup Weekend away at Swan Hill with our REME friends from South Australia. May I commend this weekend to you all as you will see from the itinerary elsewhere in this "Lightning Flash" it is quite a full plate and at the quite reasonable cost of $330.00 per person for the four days.

If you wish you may pay the weekend off if this may assist you; I would like to fill our coach and have more of our members attend one of our trips, then, we will "have" you on our next trip of that I am sure! It would be great to have more of our members than REME members.

We have not heard of anybody who has been disappointed with any of our trips so why are you so shy?

SECRETARY'S REPORT

(Ron Clifford)

With insurance being on every ones lips these days, we have carried out a review of our insurance coverage. We now find it necessary to instigate a few changes to the Association Rules, to ensure that every one is adequately covered when attending any Association Activity. Some other rules require change to bring them in line with the Incorporated Association Act 1981 and amendments and the Model Rules.

Some of these changes are housekeeping only as we have been following the Act in practice. As can be seen, when you start on one thing how it spreads to other areas.

These changes become a Notice of Motion Special Agenda item at the Annual General Meeting on the 31 August 2003 and require a Special Resolution to be passed and then submitted to the Dept. of Business Affairs for their sanction before they can become effective.

This also means a complete rewrite of the Association Rules for submission to Business Affairs.

It is proposed that a new member category be introduced titled "Honorary Member", into which our Widows and others deserving of recognition would fall.

Reason: currently only Members and Associate members are covered by our insurance at Association activities.

Other Rules that require amending are as follows to conform to the Incorporated Associations Act 1981 and the Model Rules for Incorporated Associations.

SUBSCRIPTIONS:

There is nothing in the rules of the Association defining when Annual subscriptions are due and payable and how notified.

This also brings about a change to Rule 18

Please consider these additions and amendments to our rules, come along to the AGM and enjoy the comradeship and food. Make membership count.

8th Aust MT Wksp AEME

I have received a letter from a Clive Withers seeking information about the 8th Aust. MT Workshop AEME who served at 10 Mile Bulldog. Wau Road 1943. His unit at the time was 22 Aust. Works Coy. He has a little information about the project but nothing about the units.

If anyone can throw some light on this project or units please drop me a line so I can respond.

Opening of New Memorial Wall at Oakleigh Depot

The Memorial Garden at the Oakleigh Depot was first dedicated in 1994, while Bruce Williams was President of the RAEME Association. The occasion brought together three Associations at the Depot: RAEME Association, RAOC Association and the RAE Sappers' Association.

Geoff Maggs had purchased a genuine Lone Pine (grown from cones of the original at Lone Pine at Gallipoli) together with two gum trees.

Two 25-pdr field guns flank Bailey Bridge sections displaying the badges of the three Corps.

Stage Two additions include a memorial Wall of Remembrance and a spotlit flagpole.

A "Monash Journal" (the local newspaper) front-page report of the dedication of the Memorial Wall is extracted on the next page.

Troops open peace garden

By Naomi Kollmorgen (Monash Journal)

BAGPIPES pierced the icy morning air at the Oakleigh Army barracks Anzac Day ceremony. There were prayers for peace and readings from letters written by those who served at Gallipoli. Anzac Day holds particular significance for members of the Oakleigh barracks, who have either fought themselves, or been trained to serve in war.

For this reason, in 1995 officials decided the barracks needed a special place of reflection. Since then the troops have been building a memorial garden which was officially dedicated by three army chaplains last Friday (25 April).

The chaplains said: "May it remind us all of those who served their country, even unto death. "May it remind servicemen and women of their promises faithfully to serve for the common welfare of Australia."

Warrant Officer Chris McKenna said the garden would be the centrepiece of official meetings and would unify the ranks and divisions at the barracks.

"It will provide the troops and visitors with a spot to reflect on the events of the day, and on the deeds from the past."

Across the front is a wall inset with plaques commemorating each war involving Australian troops.

A sapling from the original Lone Pine tree at Gallipoli has been planted in the centre.

Bailey panels - structures used in bridge making - mark the sides of the garden, to represent the engineers based at the barracks. Two large guns symbolise the protection of troops during a parade.

He saved Changi Chapel

(From the "Monash Journal" 17 June 2003)

By Kellee Nolan

Almost 60 years ago, Rowville resident Max Lee stood in the deserted confines of the infamous Changi prisoner of war camp in Singapore.

Faith resurrected: Max Lee shows a sketch of the Changi Chapel. Below: the chapel as it stands at Duntroon. Main picture: Lucy Di Paolo

It was the close of World War II in September 1945 and Mr. Lee was part of a voluntary Australian army unit that stayed on in Singapore and Sumatra to account for as many dead, missing and unidentified Allied soldiers as they could.

A small outdoor chapel caught his eye and Mr. Lee called out to a fellow soldier burning the camp buildings to the ground, asking him not to touch it. He made a decision then to save the chapel and send it to Australia.

More than 40 years later, his vision became reality and the chapel was opened at Duntroon in Canberra by Sir Edward 'Weary' Dunlop as a national war memorial for Australia's 35,000 former prisoners of war on August 15, 1988.

Last week, Mr. Lee was awarded the Order of Australia Medal (OAM) for his service to the community, particularly through the preservation of the Changi Chapel.

Mr. Lee drew sketches of the chapel before it was disassembled and shipped to Australia.

Mr. Lee said that after returning to Australia and civilian life, marrying his wife Marjorie and rearing children, he assumed the chapel had been received and assembled and did not chase up its whereabouts until the 1960s.

But in the mid 1960s, he visited the Australian War Memorial with his family and asked to see the chapel only to find, sadly, that it wasn't there.

Mr. Lee continued his life immersed in his work as a senior executive at AMP and, for the past 27 years, living in Glen Waverley. He was a member of various community organisations including the Glen Waverley and Wheelers Hill Probus Club and volunteered for the Glen Waverley Red Shield Appeal for the Salvation Army.

In 1997, Mr. Lee received a telegram from the Veterans Affairs Department in Canberra.

"The chapel had been found in storage in Duntroon and had been there for 42 years," he said.

For getting the chapel from that point to having it proclaimed Australia's national prisoner of war memorial, Mr. Lee pays tribute to many people, including his friend David Simpson, a Glen Waverley architect who drew up plans for its reconstruction.

"The little chapel now has become a national memorial for all Australian prisoners of war and that puts it into a perspective of its own," Mr. Lee said. "To prisoners of war that's their mainstay, their main memorial, and it's highly respected by them."

At the age of 80, Mr. Lee is still a volunteer with Open Family Australia, helping provide meals to homeless youths in St Kilda and the city.

He is humble about his voluntary contributions and receiving his OAM as he does not see charitable work as something done for a reward.

"I was quite happy to do my bit and my share," he said.

4 CSSB 105 WKSP COY NEWS

By CAPT Bob Butler, OC

2003 THUS FAR

This year as usual has been very busy, the Coy has taken part in the 4 CSSB Battalion training program. This program also incorporated RAEME training, that is development of Corps skills up to and including a Coy deployment, the training at Coy level collimated at the end of May, this was to put us spanners at a known level prior to undertaking CSST deployments. The deployment went very well, we had 60% attendance and all members we keen to put the Wksp in the field (behind the Broady Wksp facility). Due to the ever-increasing work commitments we only spent one morning setting up and dismantling, the rest of the weekend was used to reduce our backlog, however, our Coy training was completed as required.

INS AND OUTS

Cpl Poly at Oakleigh has been on course and is on another as this goes to print, it good to see Poly on promotional courses, We wish her well and success. Capt Derek Beames marched-in in as 2IC, Derek is ex Navy and will require time to adjust to the Army way of doing business, he is keen to learn and I think he will be an asset to the Coy. Lt Slocombe marched-in at Broady and has assumed the Platoon Commanders role, Lt Sweeny has been moved into recruiting, he is to assist with the traineeship scheme (apprentice master). Cfn Moore is on Long Service leave, pending discharge, this means that we do not have an ARA presence at Oakleigh until Poly's return. Cpl Street has transferred to the ARA, Int Corps. A number of the ARA are being posted at the end of the year.

TRF

The Army has introduced a new system called Technical Regulatory Framework (TRF). The aim of the TRF is to provide all commanders, with an assurance that Land Materiel is safe, fit for service and environmentally compliant.

As a result of the TRF introduction, 4 CSSB will be audited sometime in August 03. In preparation for this audit, the Unit has had to write a Maintenance Management Plan (MMP), have this plan approved at 2 Div level via HQ 4 Bde. We have developed databases for maintenance of information pertaining to equipment Non-Technical Inspections, Local Modifications, AMW's, Calibration and trade skill/knowledge competency requirements for each trade position within the Unit. At this stage all is on schedule for the audit, we still need to complete the AMW audit and the Technical Inspections of all equipment.

Policy instructions (eg some General and Workshop Series EMEI) will be progressively cancelled during TRF implementation, but will remain available until Dec 03, these documents are replaced by the Technical Regulation of Army Materiel Manual (TRAMM). Training for tradesmen and other Unit members will be conducted during July to inform all of the TRF and it's affects on them and equipment, the TRF also introduces a new classification system for inspection reports (eg: serviceable replaced with Fully Functional) and a new set of tags.

ARES Trainee Scheme

The Unit is investigating the introduction of the ARES Traineeship Scheme, this scheme is under trials at the moment with 4 CER and other 2 DIV Units north of the border, we hope to get on it's coat tails for commencement in 2004. This will allow the Unit to employee trainee tradesmen, it will provide us with 2nd, 3rd and maybe 4th year trade trainees to fill the ever increasing vacancies. Under the scheme the trainees will be required to parade for 150 days a year, this includes TAFE and Recruit training time. I believe that over a period of time, some of these trainees will stay with the Unit and fill vital crafty positions, this will allow corporals to their job etc. I see this as the only mechanism to recruit new blood into the corps and the Unit and to bolster our somewhat ageing and flagging numbers.

Major Stewart Meiklejohn

Those who knew Stewart either at AAS Balcombe (11th Intake '56-'58) or during his RAEME service will recall that he was reported in the February issue as having suffered a ruptured aorta.

When visiting our daughter (husband is RAEME Captain) in Brisbane in March, I caught up with Stewart and his lovely wife Meryl. He is progressing well and sends regards to all his mates in Victoria. (Editor Pat Marley)

3 Recovery Company

On the 28th June this year 3 Recovery Company was called upon by Dandenong RSL for assistance in moving a Huey Helicopter from the Melbourne Docks to Dandenong RSL.

The helicopter is being moved for preparation to be mounted outside the RSL. The mounting of the helicopter outside the RSL will serve as a memorial for returned soldiers from Vietnam, particularly during Anzac Day ceremonies annually where Dandenong RSL is the focus for the South-East of Melbourne.

3 Recovery Company, as the only independent RAEME sub-unit remaining in the Australian Army, rose to the unusual task of moving the helicopter. Having been approached some weeks earlier about the prospect of the move CAPT Tony Moon set about organising the activity, expecting some notice before the task would be carried out.

On the 26th June, Thursday evening, the RSL contacted the unit and asked if they would be able to move the helicopter on the Saturday morning.

Without hesitation the unit accepted the challenge and quickly rang around to see who would be available to carry out the task. LCPL Jason Powell assembled his crack recovery team of LCPL Tim Knowles and CFN Kristy Dowel.

Utilising famous RAEME initiative LCPL Powell made use of whatever he could get his hands on at the Melbourne docks, utilising P&O staff and forklift to lift the Helicopter onto his Mack Wrecker and 20 tonne trailer. Concerns as to whether the tail shaft would fit over the back of the trailer were alleviated when it was found that the ramps could be shut either side of the tail shaft. Once firmly in place the helicopter was transported to 3 Recovery Company's depot in Doveton awaiting the next move where it will be painted ready to be mounted. 3 Recovery Company will move it to its permanent place, mounted six metres in the air outside Dandenong RSL in September this year.

The helicopter has been donated by the Arkansas Air National Guard and was flying up until May this year. It will be mounted in fully working order.
